Meet Edwige

Edwige A. Robinson is an enterprise technology executive at Elevance Health, where her work spans strategy, governance, and execution. A former Senior Vice President of Network Engineering, Operations and Transformation at T-Mobile, she brings nearly three decades of experience across healthcare and telecommunications.

From Abobo, Côte d'Ivoire, to leading large technology teams, Edwige has learned that technology creates its greatest value when we pair what is possible with what people need. She helps leaders decide what to automate, what people must still own, and when a pilot has earned the right to scale.

She is the author of Believe It's Possible: Conquer Your Mountains, Blaze Your Trail, and Achieve Uncommon Success and the creator of the Edwige Robinson 5R Leadership Framework™. She serves on the Ronald McDonald House Charities Technology Advisory Committee.

Signature Keynotes

Practical tools for leaders who have to make the call.

01 EXECUTIVE AND HEALTHCARE LEADERS

Advancing AI and Preserving Our Humanity

An AI pilot saves time. Is it ready to scale? Drawing on her transformation work, Edwige shows how to move faster without weakening oversight or handing over human judgment.

Takeaway: An AI Pilot Decision Scorecard to decide what to scale, revise, or stop based on speed, service quality, and clear human accountability.

02 WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP

From Expertise to Influence

Good work does not always reach the people making decisions. Edwige shows how to frame a recommendation, handle pushback, and ask a sponsor for a specific next step.

Takeaway: A 60-second recommendation and a sponsorship ask for a decision that matters.

03 COLLEGES AND EARLY CAREER

The Bridge to Better: Turn Your Skills Into Opportunity

How do you get a first opportunity without an established network? Edwige shows students how to turn a project into evidence of their skills and start a career conversation.

Takeaway: A skills-based introduction, one outreach message, and a seven-day follow-up plan.
